What's New In?

Table Comparator - as the name suggests is a comparative tool to compare two flat tables or columns to one another. What it does is it compares the columns in the first table with the columns in the second table, and then, it then goes through all the columns in the first table and compares it with the second table in terms of their values or text, and it highlights the mismatches or differences if there are any. Its use is very simple and straightforward. To use this product, first, you need to open the first table and you need to find the column you want to compare. The second table can be either a flat table or a relational table. It is also important to note that in Table Comparator the tables don't have to be in the same workbook or workbook area, they can be located in different workbooks or workbook areas. Once you locate the column, right-click and choose 'Compare Tables'. This will open a dialog box showing the two tables, one on the left and one on the right. The columns in the first table can be selected by dragging the mouse over the table columns. Once the columns are selected, you can see the respective value in the second table. If there is a mismatch in value, it will be highlighted in red. Example: This tool can be very useful when comparing two tables. You may want to compare the two tables and you don't want to use a VLookup because you need to have the entire range to match.
